"I believe that education is the single-most important civil rights issue that we face today. Because in the end, if we really want to solve issues like mass incarceration, poverty, racial profiling, voting rights, and the kinds of challenges that shocked so many of us over the past year, then we simply cannot afford to lose out on the potential of even one young person."

Last year, Former First Lady Michelle Obama hosted her 4th Annual #CollegeSigningDay in New York City. The purpose, to inspire every student in America to take charge of their future by completing their education past high school, whether at a professional training program, a community college, or a four-year college or university.

We are committed to expanding this opportunity to Baltimore City and including ALL 5,000 high school seniors in the first-ever, citywide College Signing Day. We understand that many college-bound students may not feel confident about or fully prepared for their big next steps. We want to ensure that our students feel supported and valued by their city.
